Owners Must List Cows Before Taking to Stock Pens

"Town cows" will be bought Saturday afternoon at the stock pens from 1:00 o'clock until 6:00 o'clock. The purpose of setting a special date for these cows is due to the fact that few people in town have more than one cow, and this makes it impossible for the inspectors to visit all of the places in Canyon to appraise the cows.

County Agent W. H. Upchurch and Clyde McElroy call attention to the following regulations as to the purchase of these cows Saturday. The owners must first list them with the committee at the court house. The owners must then bring the cows to the stock pens and be there in person to turn them over to the relief agents.

Cows which are not listed in advance will not be accepted. Cows will not be accepted from any person excepting the owners.

The local committee has bought nearly 3500 head of cattle from owners in Randall county under the government buying program. The average is running about 100 daily since there is only one veterinarian to do the inspection of the cattle offered for sale.

Checks are coming in daily for the cattle which have been bought. The office has been changed to Kansas City and this is saving considerable time in getting the money back to the farmers.

Arrest Made at Camp, Charges in Beer Selling Case

One of the exchange operators at the Palo Duro was arrested Sunday morning when beer was offered for sale at the canteen. Sheriff Bob Barnett made the arrest in the presence of Justice of the Peace Fred E. Wortham and District Judge Henry S. Bishop. The CCC man was placed under $500 bond to await the action of the grand jury. The sale of beer was withdrawn by company officers after the arrest.

Beer was offered for sale under the general order of the army that it might be sold in certain territory where not otherwise prohibited. Local authorities advance the belief that the Palo Duro is not an army post, and that the Park comes under the jurisdiction of the county which has twice been voted dry by large majorities.

County Candidates Will Talk Friday at The Black Lantern

Randall county candidates have been invited to talk Friday night to the voters of South Amarillo and will meet at the Black Lantern at 8:30 o'clock. Lighting facilities, a platform and seats will be provided for this meeting.

There are more than 300 voters within the city limits of Amarillo who reside in Randall county, and these voters are asked to meet the Randall county candidates Friday night in this gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Newlin and children are spending this week on their vacation to New Mexico.

Candidates Talk to Voters Saturday Nite

Large Crowd Gathers To Hear County Candidates Talk

A large number of Randall county voters greeted the county candidates Saturday night for the first political gathering of the year.

At the request of the district candidates, the meeting scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed until Saturday night of this week when another gathering will be held on the court house lawn.

Clyde W. Warwick presided at the meeting. Following the splendid concert by the Buffalo Band, the candidates were invited to the bandstand where the program was held. A loud speaker was provided, which added very greatly to the interest of the listeners. It was reported that citizens of Canyon several blocks away heard most of the speakers as they talked at the bandstand.

Mr. Warwick introduced the district candidates who were present and they in turn asked the voters to return next Saturday night when they would discuss the merits of their own campaigns.

The following were those who spoke: S. B. Orton, Burney Slack, Felix Neff, Mrs. Tom Lair, A. B. Holt, A. C. Donnell, R. N. Barnett, Mrs. Elzie Price, Miss Olive V. Schramm, J. D. Barker, G. B. Heath and J. W. Turner.

Arthur C. Johnson was called from the audience to make a short statement regarding the candidacy of Senator Clint C. Small for Governor. Mr. Johnson was formerly a member of the House of Representatives, and during the regular session was private secretary to Senator Small. He told the audience that had it not been for the strong leadership of Senator Small during the so-called economy and efficiency fight, that W. T. might have been reduced to a junior college or abolished. "Senator Small has always been a friend of Canyon, and the educational program of Texas," stated Mr. Johnson. He predicted a great victory for Senator Small if the people of the Panhandle will stay with him as they did four years ago.

Bob Jarrett In Statement, Aims of Rotary Club

Bob Jarrett presided Tuesday at the Canyon Rotary Club luncheon in opening the year's work as president of the club.

Three things were stressed by the new president as the aim for the year's work: Each member to do something worth while for Rotary; each committee to definitely organize for work laid out for it; the club as a whole to have one or more worthy projects for the year.

Mr. Jarrett and Coach Al Baggett had just returned from a visit to the other teachers colleges of Texas observing the work being undertaken in physical education. Mr. Jarrett was impressed with the program being put on in Vernon where the high school coach is employed during the summer months to keep the boys busy in constructive games rather than leaving them to roam the streets.

Visitors present Tuesday were Eugene F. Harris, Lockney; Jim H. Florey, Ben Anderson, H. M. Anderson and N. H. (Dinty) Moore, Amarillo; Rev. E. A. Newby, Canyon.

Mrs. O. Shuman is visiting with relatives in Collin County.

Judge Henry Bishop Makes Statement In Regard to Campaign

HENRY S. BISHOP

Judge Henry S. Bishop stated Saturday that owing to continued duties in holding district court that he had been unable to make as active a campaign as he would make if time permitted.

Judge Bishop is one of the best known jurists in this section of Texas. He has served for many years both as district attorney and as district judge of the 47th judicial district.

The following is Judge Bishop's statement:

I have lived in the Panhandle, in this judicial district, since 1893. After farming and teaching school and doing contract work for several years, I attended and graduated from the University of Texas Law School.

In 1902 I was elected district attorney of this district, then the largest in Texas, composed of 16 (Continued on last page)

D. E. Colp, chairman of the State Parks Board, left Sunday night for Austin after having attended the opening of the Palo Duro from Wednesday until Sunday. "While the weather has been against large crowds, we were well pleased at the attendance at the Palo Duro," stated Mr. Colp. This opening drew one of the largest crowds of any of the openings of Texas Parks.

"I shall return in about two weeks, and at that time hope to have some good news for you as to the future development of the Palo Duro," stated Mr. Colp, Sunday.

Whether or not the new company of 250 would be located at Palo Duro remained unknown. The company was ordered placed here last week, and then the order was cancelled, but no notice has come as to the location of the five new companies to be placed in Texas.

"Materials for the Palo Duro will come through now without further delay," stated Mr. Colp. He explained that the tie-up in materials extended all over the nation, thru the unwillingness of some of the states to co-operate with the national park service. Texas was one of the few states which had no difficulties with the national department, but suffered along with the (Continued on last page)

Nail Campaign Lies and Liars In Our Midst

Last minute campaign lies and liars should be immediately nailed by the voters. Every campaign sees them turn loose at the last minute, hoping to boost 'their man' by telling lies on the other candidate.

An Amarillo man walked the streets of Canyon Monday and made the statement that Clint Small was a hypocrite in condemning gambling, as Small introduced the horse racing bill; also that Small was responsible for the 67 1/2 cent gas rate in Canyon.

The man did not explain that the horse racing bill originated in the House and not in the Senate, and was attached as a rider to the Departmental Appropriation bill, and that Senator Small made a fight to remove this rider from the bill.

The man failed to explain that Senator Small introduced a bill to create a separate Oil and Gas Commission in order that this business might be handled for the benefit of small communities who are financially unable to make a fight for lower rates through the courts.

The man thought he was safe in relying upon the ignorance of the average voter, who is too busy making a living to really keep up with all legislative matters.

Government Takes Open Note From The Farmer

MONTHLY LOANS

Mrs. Cole in Charge of New Office at Court House

Emergency feed loans for the farmers and stockmen of Randall County will be made at the Chamber of Commerce office at the court house. Field Supervisor T. L. Miller was here Tuesday night and started Mrs. James Cole on this work yesterday morning. Mrs. Cole will also continue to receive seed wheat applications, which have formerly been made at the First National Bank.

Applications for the feed loans and for planting forage crops are possible under the designation of Randall county as in the drouth area. Under the new set up the county committee is enlarged to the following: W. C. Black, T. C. Thompson, J. P. Hix, H. S. Strain, and R. O. Allison.

No mortgages are required from the farmers and stockmen in order to secure these feed loans. The government is trusting to the honesty of the farmers and realize the extreme urgency of the situation. Mr. Miller states that the money will be available for the farmers in three or four days after the applications are approved.

The farmers are required to give promissory notes each month for the amount of feed necessary. The maximum allowance per head per month is the following schedule: Horses and mules, $4.00; cattle, $3.00; sheep and goats, 75c; hogs, $1.00; poultry 5c. Owners of range cattle may borrow as much as $1.50 per month per head.

While the time for wheat seed loans will expire on July 15th, it is believed that this time will be extended.

Mr. Miller points out the fact that applications will be accepted only from those who have no other means or source of credit which would enable them to undertake the production of a forage crop, or to purchase feed for their livestock.

Non-disturbance agreements must be signed by lien holders against the stock, if any, who must agree to take no steps to enforce the payment or collection of any claim against the borrower nor dispossess him of any property until January 1, 1936.

Wheat Contracts Ready For State Agent This Week

Practically all wheat farmers have signed the wheat compliance contracts.

These contracts will be submitted to the state agent at Amarillo this week, and it is hoped that he will approve them without delay and forward the contracts on to Washington.

The News Will Blanket County Next Two Weeks

There remain only two more weeks before the primary election.

In order that candidates for public office may reach every voter in the county, the News will send copies to every poll tax payer in the county who is not a regular subscriber to this paper.

Candidates and business houses in Canyon should take advantage of this added circulation in order to take a message to every voter in Randall county.

Oklahoma Man Named for New Department In W. T.

C. S. Johnston, of Norman, Oklahoma, has been selected by Dr. J. A. Hill to take charge of the work of the recently created department of Archaeology and Paleontology at the West Texas State Teachers College. Dr. Hill said yesterday, "I feel that I have secured a splendid man for this place. Mr. Johnston will soon have his Ph. D. degree, he has a reputation for working smoothly with people and his preparation and experience are such as to fit him admirably for this place."

A native of North Carolina, he received both his A. B. and M. S. degrees at the University of North Carolina; for the past two years he has been doing graduate work at the University of Oklahoma and has served as research assistant and as graduate assistant there. Articles written by Mr. Johnston or by him and other scientists have appeared in The American Midland Naturalist and the Journal of Geology.

Before he was elected, Mr. Johnston came to Canyon for a conference with President Hill, Mr. Floyd Studer and Professor L. F. Sherry and all of them felt that his coming would mark a distinct step forward in the development of the regional interest in his subjects and in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum which is already becoming known far and wide for its contribution to these fields. Mr. Johnston has had exceptional opportunities for he was a member of an expedition which visited Honduras; he has also worked in New Mexico, Arizona, and Oklahoma; at present he is doing field work near Optima, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Johnston will be an addition to the musical circles of the city, as she is an accomplished singer.

Revised Contracts on Hogs Submitted To State Agency

Revision of the hog contracts will be ready to submit to the state authorities this week, the farmers having signed up Friday and Saturday.

The allotment for Randall county was reduced 288 head, which caused a revision of the contracts. There are 222 contracts in the county, thus amounting to only a little more than one head for each of the hog raisers of the county.

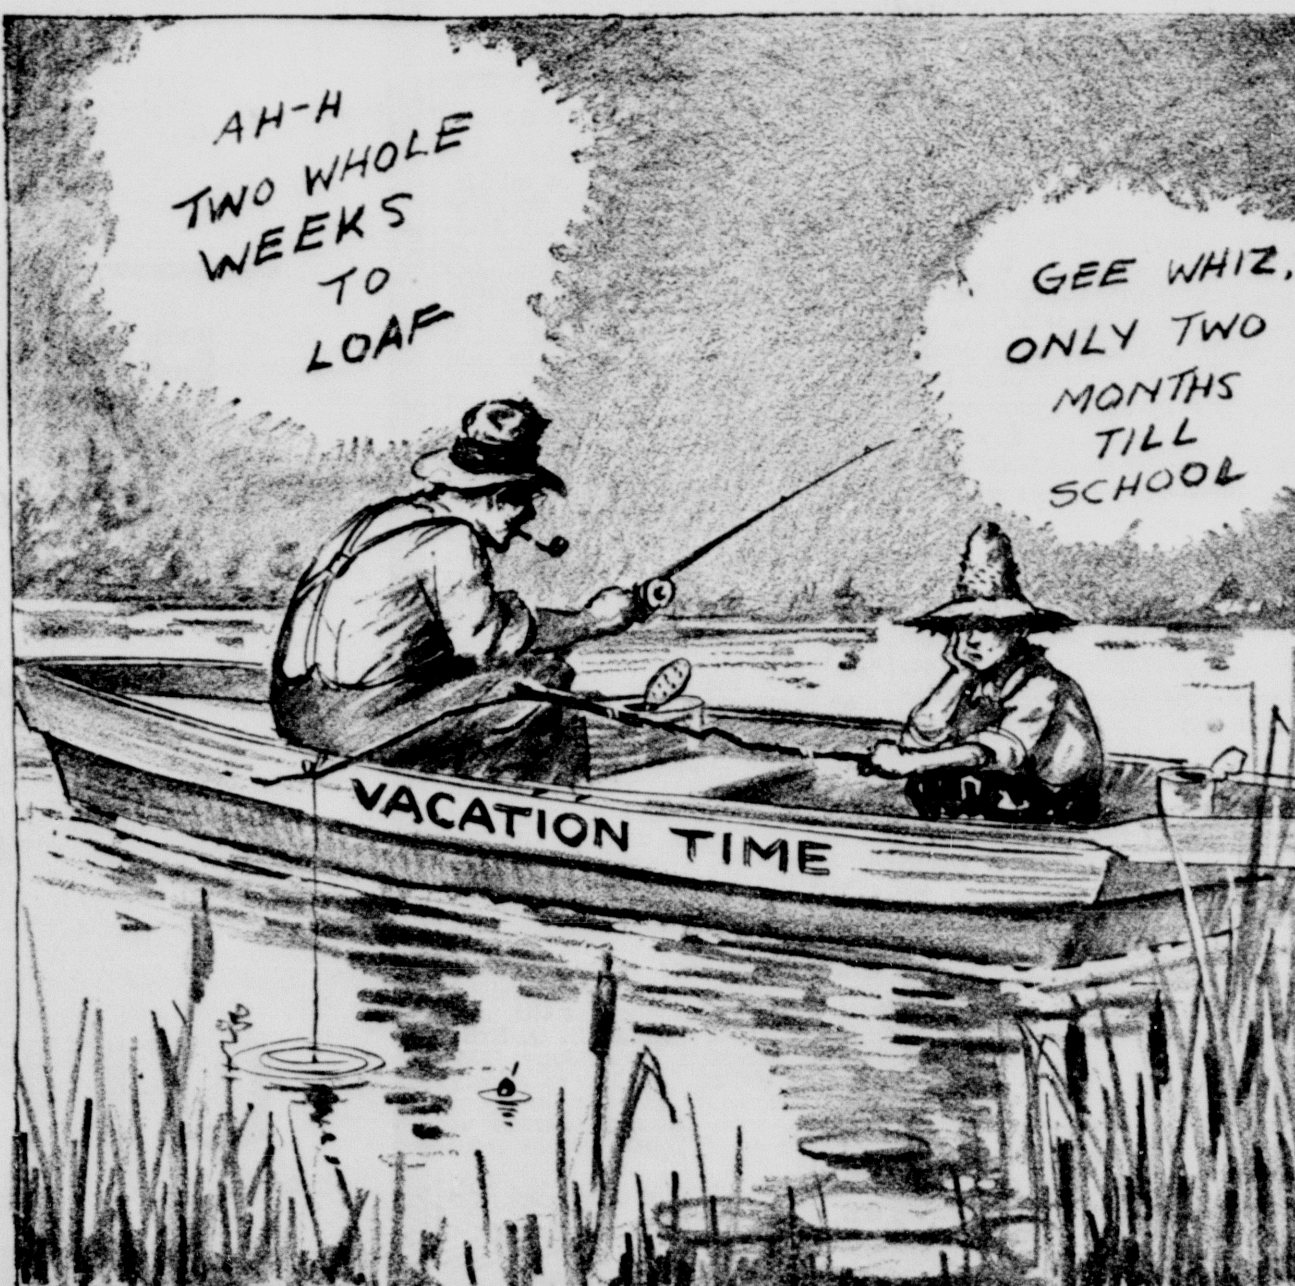

County Agent W. H. Upchurch states that the hog reduction program will bring about $11,700 to the farmers of the county.

Glen Costley Hurt When Run Over by Wheel of Combine

He is now at the home of his mother, 2006 Fourth Avenue, where he is receiving medical attention.

It is to be regretted that such a noteworthy project as the Palo Duro Park should be subjected to the exploitation of attractions which were not up to par, and which have long since lost a drawing power in this section. There was much criticism on the part of the public at the gate charge at the Park when the people have become accustomed to paying only 35 cents per car. Those who were opposed to this type of entertainment foresaw the danger, and suggested that the rodeo be made apart and separate from the regular outing and picnic features of the Park. Perhaps it is well that money was lost on the opening venture so that it will not be repeated in the future. In the meanwhile, the people of the nation should be assured that in the future they shall have to pay only 35 cents for the purpose of driving into the greatest scenic wonder of the Southwest. The combination did not work; many who wanted to go into the Park for a picnic were driven away by the gate charge. Those who wanted to see a first class rodeo would have been willing to pay a larger admission price in order to see one of that class.

Shooting your political enemy may remove present difficulties, but it is not a very sound foundation upon which to build a nation or a political party. Hitler will no doubt be the victim of his own folly before many months, or even days.

"No state can gamble or drink itself back to prosperity," was the bold statement made by Senator Clint Small. The Panhandle candidate for Governor is going after an evil which is a real evil in Texas, and not an imaginary one, like most of the other candidates are howling about. Open bars are running in Texas; opening gambling houses are running wild; people are spending their money in these joints who cannot afford to spend their meagre earnings. Clint Small says that he will close these joints if elected. The rangers of Texas are the most feared law enforcement body in the nation. When directed by a fearless Governor, they can clean up the state. It is no wonder that the gambling element in Texas, together with those favoring the open saloon have lined up against Clint Small. He is the only candidate fearless enough to speak out against the real dangers of the day.

Jim Ferguson announces that it will be necessary to hold another special session of the legislature in September in order to authorize addition relief bonds. The federal government has been willing to advance Texas money since the bonds were authorized by a vote of the people, so it would seem useless for the state to spend another $100,000 for a special session when the regular session meets in January. Time was that the Fergusons avoided special sessions. They seem to have acquired the habit, like other governors in recent years.

The vote of the Literary Digest shows clearly that the popularity of President Roosevelt has grown since he was elected to the office. The general approval of his acts is by a larger majority than his election by popular vote. The fearlessness of the President in attacking the problems of state appeals to the people of the nation.

The forestry plan announced by the government to plant a strip of trees 100 miles wide from Canada to the Panhandle, will mean more than a lot of us realize. The nation has been very negligent of its forests and trees. Perhaps much of the drought and wind of this section could be overcome if there were plenty of trees. At least, the forestry experts have figured this out as a practical solution, and the attempt will be made. Another measure long considered practical is the building of a series of low dams in all of the streams in the west in order to hold back flood waters. Science is discovering a lot of things, and should you be privileged to live 50 or 100 years, you will marvel at the plans which have been devised to curb the cruelties which we are now enduring because of the lack of understanding of the laws of nature.

Wise Additions to Your Wardrobe

BOTH MISS AND MATRON WILL FIND SOMETHING TO PLEASE IN THIS WEEK'S PATTERN OFFERINGS

TWO charming dresses sketched for this week will intrigue smart young moderns. And their mothers and aunts will welcome the house apron, designed for matrons.

All three are easy to make at home, and any one of them would make a valuable, as well as practical, addition to a well-planned summer wardrobe.

The youthful morning frock, No. 155, can be made in gingham, organdy, or voile. A crossbar organdy or checked gingham is preferable for the frock that has a flounce in the front. Of course, if you prefer a plain skirt, simply leave off the flounce.

The dress comes in sizes 14 to 20 and in 32 to 42. Size 18 needs 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric. Without the skirt flounce, size 18 calls for only 3 1/4 yards of material.

The street dress, No. 143, lovely in a silk print, comes in sizes 11 to 19, with corresponding bust 29 to 37. Size 15 needs 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. The house apron, No. 9857x, lends itself well to polka-dotted percale or some other cotton. It is designed in four sizes—small (34 and 36), medium (38 and 40), large (42 and 44) and extra large (46 and 48). Size "medium" requires 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric.

check collected from the oil companies in royalties. The funny thing about this check is that Dan Moody filed this suit, which was prosecuted by Claude Pollard and Lee Bobbitt, and the present attorney general at one time contemplated dismissing the suit before it was affirmed by the Supreme Court so that collection could be made. A candidate should always be careful to stick with the facts when he brags about his accomplishments. Clint Small uncovered the facts about this case, as well as the fact that open bars are running in San Antonio and other cities, without interference on the part of the attorney general.

The voters of Canyon responded in large numbers to the first political rally of the year when the county candidates spoke Saturday night. The crowd was much larger than was contemplated, and by the aid of the loud speaker equipment, all were able to hear the candidates very distinctly. The voters are asked to return next Saturday night to hear the district candidates. Each one will be given 15 minutes time in which to discuss their campaign.

The general drought has done more to Curtail production than the crop control measures. However, as a relief measure the money which goes to the farmers under crop control is a wise investment. A splendid organization is being perfected which will be of great service to the government in the future.

If the United States and Canada were like European nations, a large standing army would be maintained by each along the border. It is certainly fine to be in accord with your neighbors, and not have to be watching them all of the time for treachery.

About the easiest job around town is to keep a record of the rainfall.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

(Port Worth Star-Telegram) Speaking at Stephenville Thursday, James V. Allred, candidate for Governor, advised Texas voters to follow the example set by Oklahomans in the Democratic primary in that State. "They turned thumbs down on old Honest Bill

Murray when he tried to cram a candidate down the throats of the people," said Mr. Allred, "and the people of Texas are not going to let a wood-and-water totter push his crown prince off on them either."

Everyone will recognize the candidate to whom Mr. Allred refers as the choice of the "wood-and-water totter." In Texas C. C. McDonald represents Jim Ferguson's attempt to perpetuate his power in state affairs just as Tom Anglin in Oklahoma represented a similar effort by Bill Murray in that State. The Oklahoma voters defeated Mr. Anglin, just as Mr. Allred suggests the Texas voters will defeat Mr. McDonald.

But although Mr. Allred did not mention them, and perhaps would prefer that they be not mentioned, there are other aspects of the Oklahoma example which he has called to the attention of Texas voters.

The voters of Oklahoma also turned thumbs down on the candidate who made the biggest noise on the stump, who promised the voters free access to the state treasury without the necessity of paying taxes. That candidate was Jack Walton, who as an exponent of the political precepts made famous of late by such gentlemen as Huey Long, ranks along with at least two of the candidates in the Texas race—Tom Hunter and Mr. McDonald again.

And there is still another aspect of the Oklahoma vote which Mr. Allred did not mention, and probably will not mention, but which also may be recommended to Texas voters for emulation. The Oklahoma voters turned thumbs down also on the occupant of the attorney general's office, Berry V. King, who, like Mr. Allred in Texas, apparently sought the Governor's office on the ground that it would enable him to do the things he was supposed to do in the attorney general's office.

And yet another aspect of the Oklahoma vote. The voters passed over the candidates who had speedy formulas for making everybody rich and chose instead the solid and experienced man who in commonsense fashion told them what could be done and what could not be done in the way of government financing, aid, and taxation. Texas also has a candidate of this sort—

Clint C. Small.

Yes, Mr. Allred, Oklahomans set a good example for Texas voters—all the way down the line.

Ruth Bryan Owen for Celebration of 25th Anniversary Next Fall

Only Woman Ever To Serve As Foreign Ambassador

Ruth Bryan Owen, former Congresswoman and the only woman ever to hold a foreign ambassadorship, will be the principal speaker at the 25th Anniversary Home-Coming celebration here next October 18 and 19.

Ruth Bryan Owen has taken an active part in politics for many years, starting her career as her father's secretary when he ran for president in 1908. Mrs. Owen was born in 1885 in Jacksonville, Illinois, and due to her father's activities, was brought up on politics. Therefore it was an experienced campaigner who ran for Congress and defeated an opponent who had already held the position for six terms.

Shows Independence

In her campaign Mrs. Owen did not stress political issues but concentrated her activities on woman's place in politics and making the children what she termed "Washington conscious." Although she is the daughter of the Great Commoner, William Jennings Bryan, Ruth Bryan Owen stands on her own feet and does not hesitate to go against her father's political views if they clash with her own.

Served During War

Mrs. Owen's chief characteristics are her energy, her enthusiasm, and her zest for living. Possessed of abundant energy, she has always used this valuable asset along constructive and helpful lines. During the war, despite the fact that her four children were young, she enlisted for active service, serving as a nurse and singing in the camps of the British Army in Palestine. After the war, she and her husband, Major Reginald Owen, settled in Florida where the people soon recognized the charm of her personality and her interest in all civic organizations. She served as a leader of the Consumers League, Parent-Teachers Association, D. A. R., Miami Theatre Guild, and the state university public speaking department.

When she decided to run for Congress, Mrs. Owen was well known, and was elected more for her public work and her all-consuming interest in humanity than for her political doctrines. Mrs. Owen is interested in the common people, and did all she could for the welfare of "her" farmers and "her" fishermen. She is very enthusiastic about woman's part in politics, and it is her desire to acquaint them and their children with the American government and to teach them something of the things for which it stands.

Only Woman Ambassador

At the expiration of her term in Congress, Mrs. Owen was made ambassador to Denmark. No other woman has ever held the post of foreign ambassador, but Ruth Bryan Owen was in every way fitted for her work.

Popular in Washington

She is a charming woman. Tall, graceful and well dressed, she gives an impression of ease and culture, yet she is thoroughly a capable business woman. Her wit, and her charming personality have won her a host of friends in Washington. It is said that she is as popular in Congress as a debutante in her own picked group of friends.

Accomplished Speaker

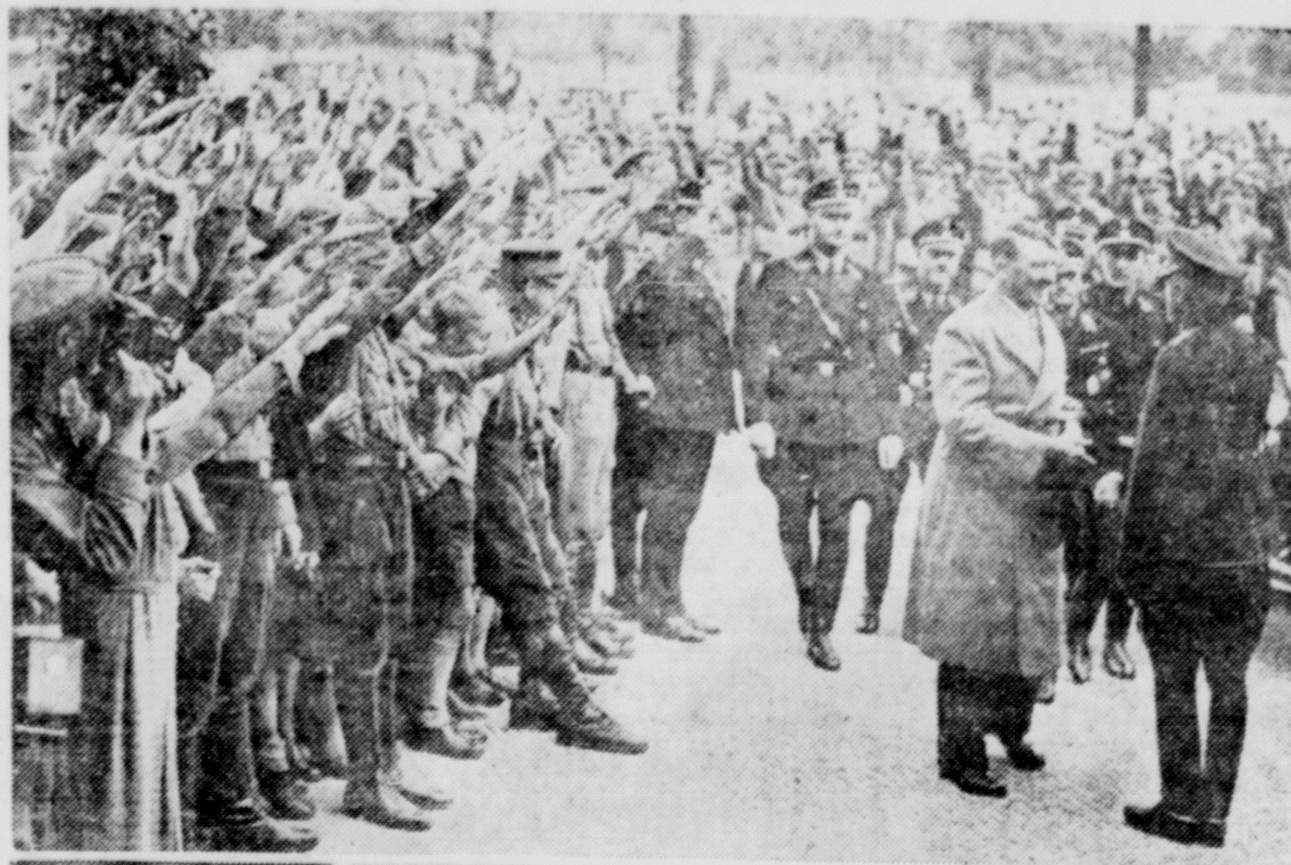

Mrs. Owen is an accomplished speaker, having made six hundred speeches during her political campaign. She was also a Chautauqua hit for many years, featuring the "Modern Arabian Nights" and "Opening Doors." Though she possesses little of the thundering oratory of her father, Mrs. Owen can rise to a patriotic crescendo, but she can descend to punning and story-telling. She has control over her listeners, swaying them in harmony with her own emotions. Her voice is low and resonant, somewhat reminiscent of her father's. With her easy platform manner, her charming voice, and her interesting personality, Ruth Bryan Owen will receive a hearty welcome in Canyon.

T.

It is expected that the trip will prove highly profitable to the college. The two gentlemen made the trip in Coach Baggett's car.

Hitler Quells Nazi Revolt, Keeps Power

By acting swiftly and ruthlessly to avert an impending revolt in Nazi ranks, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, bottom left, succeeded in holding his power as dictator of Germany. Scores of Storm Troop sub-leaders were killed or arrested in the Nazi "housecleaning" campaign waged in Berlin and Munich by Hitler and his "strong man," Prussian Premier Hermann Goering, second from left, below. Following the coup, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, third from left, below, retained his position at the Nazi chief's right hand; but Hitler sought to oust from office Vice Chancellor Franz Von Papen, bottom right. ZITA H. D. CLUB
WITH MRS. MCCORMICK

An interesting demonstration of jelly making was given by Miss Sadie Kate Bass at the regular meeting of the Zita Home Demonstration club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. McCormick.

Miss Bass said, "In order to obtain the best test of fruit pectin one should use one-half ripe and one-half green fruit in the tart fruits such as plums, or two-thirds green and one-third ripe in the sweeter fruits."

The members learned at this lesson that a good test to determine the amount of pectin in various juices was made with denatured alcohol. The size of the curd formed after adding one table spoonful of alcohol to two of juice, will determine the amount of pectin. The larger curd denoting more pectin.

In using the alcohol, be sure to label the container "poison" and keep out of the reach of small children.

Ten members and three guests enjoyed the delightful refreshments served at the close of the business meeting.

Replica Goodnight
Home is Placed in History Museum

When Colonel and Mrs. Charles Goodnight established their first home in Palo Duro Canyon in the late seventies, they little dreamed that a replica of it would be placed in a great regional museum and be seen by thousands of people in about a half-century after their coming.

Yet such is the case for two weeks ago J. W. Martin of Clarendon brought to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum a miniature log cabin, an exact reproduction of the one which Charles and Mary Ann Dyar Goodnight made the outstanding home of the Panhandle and the place from which plans went out that changed the whole country for hundreds of miles.

Mr. Martin made the cabin for his grandson, Freddy Martin Werker of El Reno, Oklahoma; in order that Martin, who worked for Colonel Goodnight from 1887 to his death, might be certain that every detail of the cabin was correct, he called upon J. T. Christian of Claude and others to verify his own memories of the house.

It has three rooms; the two end rooms are constructed with the logs laid horizontally, and the center room has the logs placed vertically; the cedar logs are chinked with reddish clay secured from the locality where the original stood. In each room is a fireplace, built of rock and mud. The four-pane windows used in the original house were freighted from Pueblo, Colorado; the casings were made of goods boxes. All these details are faithfully reproduced.

This home, built, according to Mr. Martin, in 1876 faced a bluff and the river ran on its north side. Water was furnished by a nearby spring, and the water barrel which stood beside the middle door was a regular part of the equipment.

The east room was given over to the bunks of the cowboys, the middle room was kitchen and dining room and the west room was occupied by the Goodnights. Dirt floors were packed and were kept carefully swept.

That the little house might be protected from cattle and other roving animals, a cedar fence was built around the place in which it stood. The limbs which formed the fence were held in place by rawhide thongs. Not a nail was used in either house or fence.

Mrs. Goodnight's flowers were the cacti acacia, and other wild blooms which abound in springtime on the Palo Duro canyon floor; it was here that the orphan Buffalo babies which she secured were cared for, forming the nucleus of what later became the famous Goodnight herd.

The ranch which was established thrived and in 1879 Colonel and Mrs. Goodnight moved from the tiny cabin. It was burned Christmas night, 1904. The site will be marked for many people as this first home symbolizes the coming of white settlers, the promise of ranches and farms and schools and churches to the Panhandle of Texas.

BABY BUFFALO DIES

College students were pleasantly surprised Saturday morning when Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Buffalo announced the arrival of an infant son to add to the mascot collection. The tiny calf, however, seemed to be having a serious tussle with the heat the rest of the day and by Sunday afternoon it was definitely on the losing side.

The committee, headed by Mr. Travis Shaw, for the removal of the body from the pen, met with unexpected opposition from the grief-stricken mother buffalo. Finding it necessary actually to drive into the lot, the men were afraid she would charge the car before they were finally successful. The buffalo calf is to be mounted for the museum.

Robert Rowan In Job With Paint Company In East

Robert Rowan of Canyon has conducted a Paint Farm for two years. As a result, he left this week for Wilmington, Delaware, where he will take his place on the laboratory staff of the Krebs Corporation, a part of the DuPont organization.

For several years a paint experiment has been conducted near Canyon by this company in an effort to find what kinds of paint are best suited to conditions of the Southwest. The experiment is under the local supervision of Dr. C. A. Perle, head of the chemistry department of W. T. Here Rowan, a major in this department, received the training which resulted in his offer of a position in the eastern plant of the paint concern. He was president of the senior class, and received his degree this year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowan, and a member of one of the pioneer families of this section.

Flower Seed and All Kinds Trees Wanted for Park

J. B. Elliston has requested again that citizens of the Panhandle save for him all of the seed from their summer flowers to be planted at the Palo Duro State Park. He will call for the flower seed when notified.

Mr. Elliston states that all kinds of trees will be transferred to the Park this winter if there are citizens in the county who have more trees than they need. He asks people to save the pods from their honey locust trees in the fall so that they may be planted along the creek in the Park.

Mr. Elliston is greatly interested in the beautification program at the park, which includes trees and flowers of all kinds.

Fifteen Feet of Paper Used Writing Museum Policy

R. W. (Bob) Foster displayed an insurance policy yesterday, the longest ever written in Canyon. It took 15 feet of paper to write the policy, which covers every item in the Museum building.

The only loss sustained since the opening of the Museum one year ago last April was the theft of coins several months ago, but fortunately these were insured at the time they were placed in the building. The insurance policy was taken upon all of the valuable articles in the Museum as a result of this one theft.

Archaeologists Are Becoming Interested

Distinguished Visitors On Campus During July And August

According to Mr. Floyd V. Studer of Amarillo, who will act as Director of the Department of Archaeology to be created in W. T. S. T. C. with the opening of the long term, the regions in the Panhandle containing a wealth of prehistoric remains are attracting much attention from experts all over the nation. The months of July and August will bring several distinguished visitors to Canyon and the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum as a result of the proposed activities in this field.

Making his third trip to Canyon, Dr. E. C. Case of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Director of the Department of Vertebrate Paleontology in the University of Michigan, visited the museum and surrounding territory the 4th and 5th of July. Dr. Curtis Hesse, representing the same department from the University of California, is expected at the college sometime during the latter part of July.

Mr. E. B. Howard, from the Philadelphia Academy of Science in the University of Pennsylvania, will make his fifth trip to Canyon soon. Mr. Howard is at present the only recognized professor of both archaeology and paleontology. Near the same time there will be on the campus a representative from the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, who is likewise making his fifth visit here.

Interested especially in paleontological research of the Tertiary beds are Mr. M. K. Elias of the Kansas Geological Survey, and Dr. Moore, its Director, who will visit the field sometime in July, according to Dr. Hesse.

During the latter part of August, Dr. R. S. Poor, Head of the Department of Geology at Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, Alabama, will make a trip to the Panhandle fields.

The fact that men from all sections of the country, prominent in these lines of work, should be taking so active an interest in the Panhandle fields is sufficient proof of the immeasurable possibilities contained therein. The new department in the college promises to open up a novel interest for students in this section of the country, the value of which can hardly be estimated.

Williams and Avent To Join European Tour

Among interesting activities of the ex-students this summer is a trip to Europe to be taken by Miss Beulah Williams, who graduated from W. T. in 1925, and Miss Maggie Avent of the Class of '30. Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, formerly director of the Students Religious Council of the College, will also be one of the party. They will make the trip with the Briscoe Tours of Waco, which is to sail from New York City July 20, on the American Merchant.

Miss Williams is an instructor in the English Department in Vernon High School. Last summer she received her Master's Degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder. Since school closed this spring, she has been visiting in the home of her mother near Plainview.

Play Night Last Thurs. Draws Few

Due to the lack of notice after the long holiday period, only a few people were present to witness the two fast games of soft ball between the Rotary Club and the All-Stars, and the second between Biggers and Harper, a postponed intramural game. The Rotarians came out on the small end of an 18 to 15 score. The game was featured by the heavy bats of both clubs. In the second game the Harper boys let the Biggers Club down 13 to 8. The Harper Boys had a big fourth inning that saw eight tallies registered. Watch for the announcement of the next play night, and let's all turn out!

AAA Claims Farm Co-operation Prime Achievement of First Year

AS its outstanding accomplishment during its first year of existence, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration points proudly to the launching of the greatest co-operative effort ever undertaken by farmers.

Three million farmers in 48 states have signed contracts making them all voluntary partners in planning production and increasing incomes. These contracts apply to four great staple export crops—wheat, cotton, corn, and tobacco.

This achievement, according to Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, signifies the beginning of a great trend away from individualistic farming and the "every man for himself" policy which has helped put agriculture in its present plight.

The final test of the AAA experiment in planned farming will lie in whether it benefits farmers and society in general. The condition of farmers generally, Davis contends, is better than it was a year ago. He gives some of the reasons:

Better adjustment of supply with demand throughout the year. Increase of farm cash income through better prices, due to production adjustments; to President Roosevelt's monetary policy, and to the improvement of cities' buying power following vigorous federal employment measures.

Besides income earned through better prices, farmers have received nearly $250,000,000 in benefit payments, rentals, and options paid them for co-operation in balancing production.

THE AAA lent a hand to farmers in another manner. To combat a terrible drought which blasted production in many parts of the midwest, Davis continues, his organization mobilized its forces. With the co-operation of federal relief, farm credit, and Department of Agriculture agencies, steps were immediately taken to buy and remove cattle, and to furnish money, food, feed, and seed to cope with drought conditions.

Disastrous dry spells, as well as hail, flood, and pest, are no novelty to farmers. For years they have pleaded for some constructive social planning that would provide them with some means of support during these periods of hardship.

This is one type of emergency the AAA was devised to meet. Benefit payments to farmers are based upon past averages of production, not upon the production of the year in which the payment is made. This, according to Administrator Davis, provides an excellent form of crop income insurance to tide farmers over lean years.

The insurance feature, however, is not the most important aim in agricultural planning. The main objective is to seek and hold, during good years and bad, the best possible balance between production of farm products and demand for them.

THERE have been many cases of individual dissatisfaction, Davis reveals, and many others may arise in time to come. But once farmers understand the fundamentals involved in the AAA, he believes, they will refuse to give up agricultural planning for "the tooth-and-fang individualism of Old Deal days."

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

It Seems Now That Uncle Sam's Davis Cup Hopes Rest on a "Wood" Foundation. . . . What's the Matter With Gomez?

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THAT erratic young man from Gotham, Sidney B. Wood, is up to his old tricks.

R. Norris Williams, non-playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, had just about made up his mind to string along with Shields and Stiefen in the singles, when Sidney crashed through with victories over both these good fellows.

All this happened during the playing of the Queens Club tournament in London and has brightened considerably the American chances in coming Davis Cup play-off.

Wood always has been consistent in his inconsistency, rising to new heights of tennis glory on alternate years. In 1931, for example, he was a shining light in winning the Wimbledon singles, only to sink to the depths when he lost the U. S. singles to Frank Bowden.

He came back with a highly successful year in 1932, which he climaxed by defeating Fred Perry, England's No. 1 player, in the U. S. championships. Last year he wound up sixth in American standing, losing to Bitay Grant, Frankie Parker, Gregory Mangin, Berkeley Bell, and Jack Crawford.

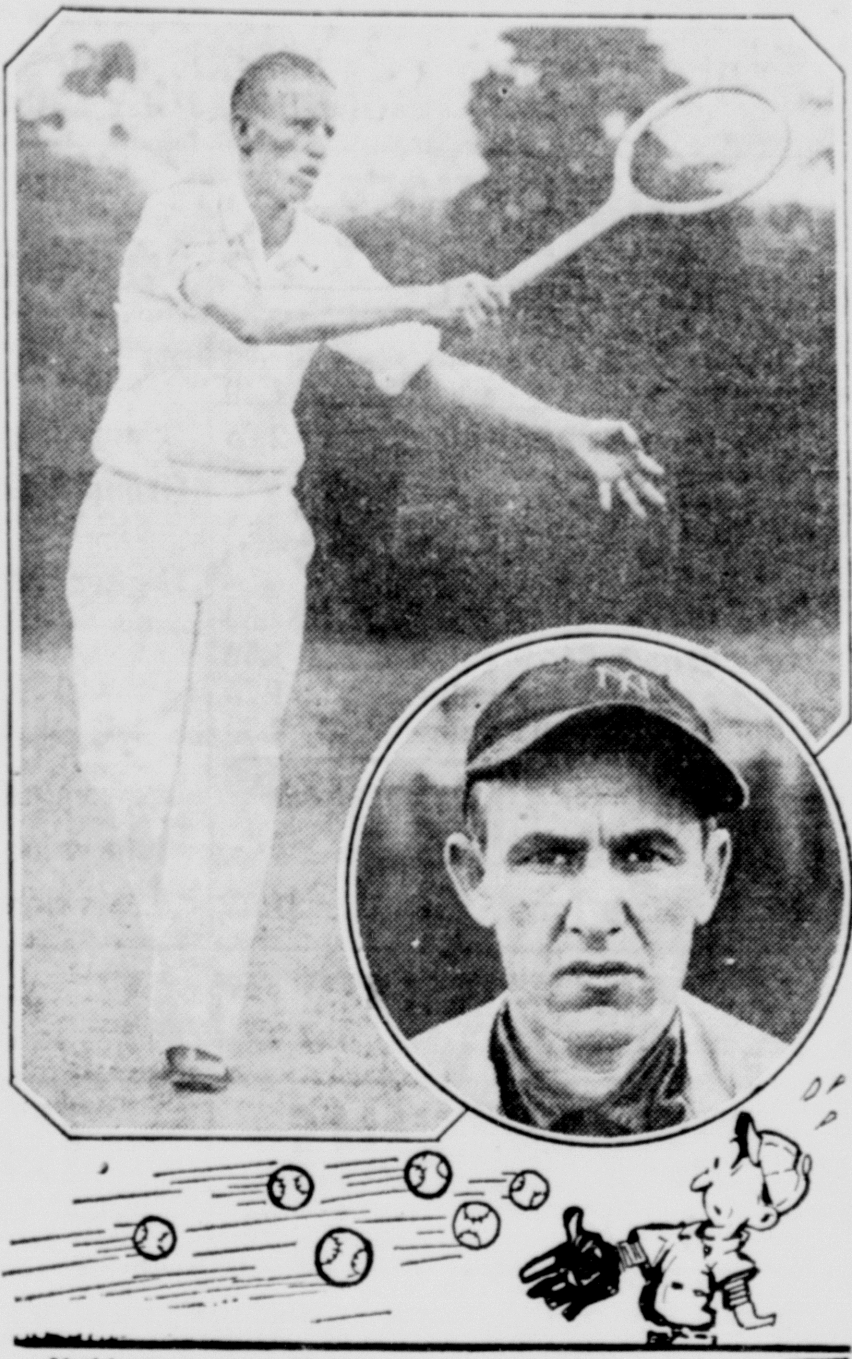

If Wood can lead the U. S. team to victory over the strong Australian company to the challenge round, the Americans should continue on to triumph over the English. This is because Fred Perry, England's star, always has been duck soup for Sidney.

Wood, in the opinion of Big Bill Tilden, is the best man on the American Davis Cup squad. And if Sidney is in for one of his good years, he should be just that.

HAS Lefty Gomez lost his fast one? On the answer to this question hangs the Yanks' chances for coming out on top in the mad scramble known as the American League race.

It may be that El Goofy's case will prove a direct parallel to that of Wes Ferrell, the former Cleveland smoke ball artist, now with the Boston Red Sox. You may recall that Wes, after winning 20 or more games in each of his first four years with the Indians, suddenly found himself without his main asset—his speed.

Since then he has depended,

with indifferent results, on his slow curve.

After successfully burning the sphere past opposing batters for the first couple of months of the present campaign, the eccentric Castilian's speed ball suddenly turned up missing, and it is no secret around the American League that he is plainly worried over the loss of his smoke.

Following a recent game with the Indians, in which he had been touched rather freely, he inquired anxiously of several Tribesmen if they thought he had lost his stuff. A glance at the box score might have answered his question. He lost his second game of the season in that contest.

counties, and served 14 years in that office.

In 1918 I was elected district judge and am now serving the fourth term in this office.

My tenure as district judge is not without precedent in Texas. It has become the practically settled policy in this and other states to retain appellate and district judges in office for long periods.

The people do not owe me another term in this office. They never did owe me any term in any public office. I asked them for the privilege of serving them. They have seen fit to repeatedly elect me. I am gratefully indebted to them for their bestowal of these important positions in the government and for their moral support in my efforts to discharge the duties thereof. No officer can succeed well in his duties in any public office without the sustaining sanction of public opinion and the co-operation of those whose servant he is.

I believe the law should be progressively improved by legislative enactment and sound judicial interpretation, consistently with the advanced thought and changing needs in the rapidly changing times, so that it may be more efficiently and economically administered, and so that all who willfully transgress it may feel its reprobating hand more than ever before and all who obey it, especially the helpless and weak, may have nearer equal right and opportunity than they have now.

I respectfully invite examination of my official record and hope to have the favorable consideration of all who may believe me worthy and capable.

My platform and only pledge, if elected, is to continue as I have always done in the past, to devote my undivided time and effort to do my duty as a judicial officer in this state, which duty is to justly administer the laws as economically as is possible.

rest in the tie-up on materials during the past three months. "We have plenty of material on hand and in transit to carry on the work at the lodge, complete the dam and keep the road work going," stated Mr. Colp.

Mr. Colp states that Adam Johnson, relief administrator of Texas, was entirely sympathetic with the Parks program in Texas, and would give every assistance possible at the Palo Duro. Mr. Colp has impressed upon him the necessity of finishing the Goodnight Trail, and has been promised all of the co-operation possible. The establishment of one transient work camp at the Pallasades and another at the Palo Duro has been requested by Mr. Colp. While here he inspected the work at the Pallasades and recommended that the road work will be continued, together with other improvements.

"While the last three months have been very discouraging," stated Mr. Colp, "I see a bright future. I am hopeful that even greater development will be possible at the Palo Duro than we have so far planned or even anticipated."

About 3,000 people visited the Park Sunday for the rodeo and spent the day in picnicking. Cabins are one of the first things Mr. Colp is anxious to see built at the park, as there are demands for them every day.

J. S. Billups of Washington, representing Robert Fechner of the National Parks Service, returned to Washington highly impressed with the possibilities of development at the Palo Duro. He is in thorough accord with Mr. Colp and George Nason, director of the National Park Service in Texas, in the plans that have been developed for the Park.

The park service will drill a number of wells on the Park property in the near future in order that all of the water supply will be confined to state property. The first well at the park entrance is completed and was put on the pump during the opening celebration in order to make a thorough test.

Blind Bogey and Match Tournament Held Sunday

Twenty-six men competed for honors at the Canyon Country Club last Sunday. A combination match and blind bogey tournament was held. The men divided into two teams for the match contest under the leadership of Ed Mickle and Ross Craig. The Mickle team beat the Craigmans by one match; the score standing 7 to 6.

Dewey Foster and Dan Sanders tied for the score in the blind bogey tournament. The Canyon Club is making negotiations with the Borger club for a tournament for next Sunday.
